

Wal-Mart still selling Miley Cyrus cadmium jewelry

May 19 2010

(AP) -- Jewelry branded by Miley Cyrus and sold exclusively at Wal-Mart's nationwide contain high levels of the toxic metal cadmium, an Associated Press investigation shows.

The world's largest retailer learned in February that the items are tainted, but has continued selling them.

The AP also found that a separate line of jewelry charms being sold at Wal-Mart also had high cadmium levels.

Long-term exposure to cadmium can lead to bone softening and kidney failure.

Representatives for both Wal-Mart and Miley Cyrus have not responded to repeated requests for comment.

Last month, Wal-Mart revealed its suppliers now have to prove that children's jewelry and other kids' products have little cadmium. But that policy didn't apply to items already on store shelves.

©2010 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Wal-Mart still selling Miley Cyrus cadmium jewelry (2010, May 19) retrieved 20 March 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2010-05-wal-mart-miley-cyrus-cadmium-jewelry.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.