

World's largest blind symbol unveiled in Vienna

October 13 2011

The world's largest blind symbol -- a yellow banner with three black spots -- was unveiled Thursday at Vienna's St. Stephen's cathedral on the occasion of World Sight Day.

The 13-by-16-meter (42.5-by-52.5-foot) banner will adorn a facade of the Gothic structure until Monday to raise awareness about blindness, especially in poor regions, where it can often be reversed with a simple and cheap operation.

The giant sign was made with some 3,600 smaller blind symbols, decorated by individuals, who used the black dots to make puppy faces or portray children playing football.

Local celebrities, including ski stars, actors and politicians also took part in the campaign, sponsored by the Austrian organisation "Licht fuer die Welt" (Light for the World).

In parts of the developing world, blindness is often inevitably linked to poverty and social exclusion.

A simple operation to restore sight can cost however as little as 30 euros ($41), according to Licht fuer die Welt.

Website: www.blindenzeichen.at

(c) 2011 AFP

Citation: World's largest blind symbol unveiled in Vienna (2011, October 13) retrieved 17 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2011-10-world-largest-unveiled-vienna.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.