

Face transplant patient doesn't get a 2nd look now

December 4 2012

(AP)—A Virginia man who received a full-face transplant says he's now able to walk past people without a second look.

Thirty-seven-year-old Richard Lee Norris of Hillsville, Va. was injured in a gun accident in 1997 and said he rarely left home afterward, shopping at night so he wouldn't be stared at. Now, he's finally coming out of hiding.

Norris received the face transplant in a 36-hour operation in March. It included the replacement of both jaws, teeth, tongue, skin and underlying nerve and muscle tissue from scalp to neck.

Norris told The Washington Post he's been doing well and has been regaining his speech, which is improving daily.

Copyright 2012 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed.

Citation: Face transplant patient doesn't get a 2nd look now (2012, December 4) retrieved 3 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2012-12-transplant-patient-doesnt-2nd.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--