

Baby with four legs has corrective surgery in SAfrica

June 20 2013

---

A government spokeswoman says a 2-month-old Namibian boy born with four legs is responding well to treatment after undergoing surgery at a South African hospital.

Ester Paulus with Namibia's Ministry of Health and Social Services said Thursday that doctors at the Red Cross War Memorial Children's Hospital in Cape Town performed a nine-hour operation to remove two legs.

The baby, Andrew Palismwe, is now recovering at the Central State Hospital in Namibia's capital.

Ruthy Mutanimiye, Andrew's mother, told media at the hospital that Andrew had "quickly responded to medication" after a day in intensive care.

The Namibian government paid for the surgery through a fund that assists state patients with no access to private medical care.

© 2013 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Baby with four legs has corrective surgery in SAfrica (2013, June 20) retrieved 26 April 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2013-06-baby-legs-surgery-safrica.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.