

Reser's recalling salads, other ready-to-eat foods

October 23 2013

An Oregon company is recalling about 109,000 cases of refrigerated prepared salads and other ready-to-eat foods because of possible listeria contamination.

The Oregonian reported Wednesday that the items were produced at Reser's Fine Foods' plant in Topeka, Kan., and were distributed across the U.S. and in Canada.

According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the listeria was detected through microbiological testing by Canadian health authorities. U.S. officials traced the contamination to the Kansas plant.

The Beaverton, Ore., company says the Food and Drug Administration found listeria in the plant and there's a possibility that items became cross-contaminated.

A list of the recalled products can be found at the FDA's website, 1.usa.gov/1cYFy8A . They all have a plant identifier code of "20" after the use-by date.

Reser's has also set up a hotline at 1-888-257-7913.

© 2013 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Reser's recalling salads, other ready-to-eat foods (2013, October 23) retrieved 19 April 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2013-10-reser-recalling-salads-ready-to-eat->

foods.html

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.