

Video: Baby talk in any language

October 10 2014

UConn researcher Nairán Ramírez-Esparza, assistant professor of psychology, has found that how you talk to children matters.

Regardless of the language, speaking to infants in a high pitch voice while elongating vowels leads to them producing larger vocabularies when they are toddlers.

Provided by University of Connecticut

Citation: Video: Baby talk in any language (2014, October 10) retrieved 3 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2014-10-video-baby-language.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--