

New York bakery recalls some 7-Eleven cookies over peanuts

April 26 2016

A suburban New York bakery has recalled several lots of cookies sold at 7-Eleven stores across the state because they may contain undeclared peanuts.

Glenn Wayne Wholesale Bakery said Tuesday the 7-Eleven Fresh to Go brand cookies are from batches potentially contaminated with peanuts and aren't labeled with allergy warnings. No illnesses have been reported.

The recalled packages are clear, plastic film with two cookies in each. They're labeled as weighing 4 ounces and have best by date codes of Friday 0422, Saturday 0423 and Sunday 0424. The cookies are Chocolate Chunk, Oatmeal Raisin and Sugar Cookie with M&M Chocolate Candy.

The Bohemia bakery says consumers can return the cookies to the stores for refunds.

7-Eleven Inc. is a subsidiary of Seven-Eleven Japan Co. Ltd.

© 2016 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: New York bakery recalls some 7-Eleven cookies over peanuts (2016, April 26) retrieved 2 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2016-04-york-bakery-recalls-eleven-cookies.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.