

Cannabidiol products now available at hundreds of CVS stores

March 22 2019

(HealthDay)—Creams, sprays, and lotions infused with the nonintoxicating hemp component cannabidiol (CBD) are now being sold at more than 800 CVS stores in eight states.

The products will be sold in store aisles, according to a company spokesman, who added that the drugstore chain is not selling any supplements or food additives containing CBD, the Chicago Tribune reported.

California, Illinois, Colorado, and Alabama are among the states where stores will carry the CBD products from marijuana company Curaleaf Holdings, which has hopes to expand sales to more CVS stores. Curaleaf operates more than 40 marijuana dispensaries across 12 states and also offers hemp-derived products, including lotions, tinctures, vape pens, and patches. CBD, which does not get people high, has become a trendy wellness ingredient, the Tribune reported.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not approved the use of CBD in food or beverages.

More information: Chicago Tribune Article
More Information: CDC

Copyright © 2019 HealthDay. All rights reserved.

Citation: Cannabidiol products now available at hundreds of CVS stores (2019, March 22) retrieved 27 April 2024 from
<https://medicalxpress.com/news/2019-03-cannabidiol-products-hundreds-cvs.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--