

Utah launches $2 million suicide prevention campaign

September 24 2019

Credit: CC0 Public Domain

Utah leaders have announced a $2 million suicide prevention campaign to combat a spike in teen suicides throughout the state and encourage residents to prioritize their mental health.

Lt. Gov. Spencer Cox announced the three-year campaign Monday alongside other lawmakers, representatives from medical providers and

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

About 3,200 Utah residents have died by suicide in the last five years.

The campaign is set to launch sometime next year. Cox said it will feature educational content across print, television, social media and other platforms.

Private donations to the campaign came from the University of Utah, The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, Intermountain Healthcare and other companies.

The state is still selecting a vendor to help create content for the campaign.

© 2019 The Associated Press. All rights reserved.

Citation: Utah launches $2 million suicide prevention campaign (2019, September 24) retrieved 19 April 2024 from

<https://medicalxpress.com/news/2019-09-utah-million-suicide-campaign.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.