

White House launches website to help those battling substance abuse

October 31 2019

---

A new website to help Americans with substance abuse problems find treatment was activated Wednesday by the Trump administration.

Officials said FindTreatment.gov will enable the tens of millions of Americans with substance abuse and mental health issues to better access care, the Associated Press reported.

By adding user-friendly search criteria and tools, the site modernizes a directory of 13,000 licensed treatment providers maintained by the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration.

For example, a search can be done based on the type of treatment (inpatient, detox, or telemedicine), by payment option, and whether the treatment is medication-assisted, the AP reported. There are also options for specific groups, such as youth, veterans, and the LGBT community.

More information: AP News Article

Copyright © 2019 HealthDay. All rights reserved.

Citation: White House launches website to help those battling substance abuse (2019, October 31) retrieved 5 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2019-10-white-house-website-substance-abuse.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.
--