

Can mosquitoes spread the coronavirus?

August 25 2020, by The Associated Press

AP Illustration/Peter Hamlin

Can mosquitoes spread the coronavirus?

No. While mosquitoes can spread some diseases, most notably malaria, experts say COVID-19 is not among them.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says it has no data to suggest the coronavirus is spread by either mosquitoes or ticks.

COVID-19 is mainly spread from person to person through droplets people spray when they talk, cough or sneeze.

© 2020 The Associated Press. All rights reserved. This material may not be published, broadcast, rewritten or redistributed without permission.

Citation: Can mosquitoes spread the coronavirus? (2020, August 25) retrieved 11 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2020-08-mosquitoes-coronavirus.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.