

Video: Can the coronavirus be transmitted during sex?

August 31 2020

SARS-CoV-2 (shown here in an electron microscopy image). Credit: National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, NIH

While there have been no documented cases of COVID-19 being transmitted sexually, there is still a strong likelihood of spreading the disease during a sexual encounter due to the intimate physical contact and lack of social distancing.

CIDD Director Dr. Elizabeth McGraw explains some precautions people can take that could reduce the chance of transmission from one partner to another.

Provided by Pennsylvania State University

Citation: Video: Can the coronavirus be transmitted during sex? (2020, August 31) retrieved 2 May 2024 from <https://medicalxpress.com/news/2020-08-video-coronavirus-transmitted-sex.html>

This document is subject to copyright. Apart from any fair dealing for the purpose of private study or research, no part may be reproduced without the written permission. The content is provided for information purposes only.