Botulinum toxin successfully treats senile entropion

27 January 2016

long wellness period was seen for patients with recurrence who repeated the procedure.

"In conclusion, although surgical treatment still remains the treatment of choice for senile entropion, botulinum toxin injection is a quick and safe outpatient procedure, which results in temporary improvement of the senile entropion," the authors write.

More information: Abstract
Full Text (subscription or payment may be required)

Copyright © 2016 HealthDay. All rights reserved.